Dear Families,

Re: PiXL Form Time Intervention: FINAL WAVE

I hope this letter finds you well. I also look forward to seeing many of you at our Targeted Parents' Evening on Thursday, 27 March, where we can discuss your child's progress and next steps.

Year 11 students have now completed their final set of trial examinations, giving them a valuable insight into their strengths and areas for improvement. These results, alongside their current attainment data, have been carefully reviewed, and we are now ready to implement the third and final wave of our PIXL Raising Achievement strategy, beginning during form time on Tuesday, 25 March.

Morning form time is an essential part of your child's preparation for their upcoming GCSE public examinations. During this time, subject specialists will deliver tailored PiXL intervention sessions designed to close knowledge gaps, reinforce key concepts, and build confidence based on the analysis of students' performance in the February Trial Examinations.

We deeply appreciate your ongoing support in ensuring that your child attends school punctually and fully engaged each day. With your encouragement and our targeted interventions, we can work together to help them approach their exams with confidence and achieve the grades they are capable of and deserve.

If you have any questions or would like further support, please do not hesitate to contact your child's subject teachers or Head of Year.

Yours faithfully,

Emma Ashman-Clark Deputy Headteacher
